

FRONTIER DAY SHOW COMING

Greatest Wild West Combination Ever Put on Anywhere—This Great Show Was Specially Prepared for Ex-President Roosevelt—Indians and Cowboys Will Repeat the Battle of the Plains—A Lively Time May Be Expected.

The Great Frontier Day Show from Cheyenne, Wyoming, will be in Ogden on September 14 and 15, 1910, a week from next Wednesday and Thursday. The show passed through Ogden last week with 66 cars and is playing now at the California State Fair.

Ex-President Roosevelt, who was in Cheyenne last week, while this great Frontier Day show was in progress, said: "It is the greatest show I have ever seen."

Mr. Chas. Irwin, the manager, was in Ogden Thursday and he said it was the greatest show ever put on anywhere and will never again be duplicated.

He has with him several hundred people, including 50 full-blooded Sioux Indians in full war regalia.

Mr. Irwin has leased the fair grounds for two days and says Ogden will never have a second chance to see the great Frontier Day show.

Cheyenne gives this Frontier Day show every year, but, on account of the visit of ex-President Roosevelt, all former efforts were eclipsed.

The California State Fair sent a man to Cheyenne to witness the show and he promptly engaged the entire aggregation and attraction for the state fair at Sacramento and, on the eastern trip, the show will be put on at the Fair Grounds for two days.

PATHETIC CASE BEFORE POLICE

An Elderly Woman, Demented, Deaf and Dumb, Taken Into Custody.

Unable to Tell Anything About Self—Provided With Food and Lodging.

An elderly woman, her hair streaked with grey, deaf and dumb, and apparently of a weakened intellect, was brought to the police station last night, and given food and lodging for the night, to be turned over to the county physician this morning for proper treatment.

The woman, who is small of stature, and weak physically, but who was wandering about the residence section near Adams avenue and Twenty-third street, during the early evening. She was seen peering into the windows of residences there, and found on the porch on one home, waiting she wrote in reply to a question for supper.

The police department was notified and the woman taken to the station, where City Physician Rees was called. The physician endeavored with the use of a pad and pencil to learn something of the woman's history and connections, but it was impossible to get any information from her.

After considerable effort, she gave her name as Mrs. Harriet Cunningham, and her address as No. 565—

Asked on what street she lived, the woman wrote, "I do not know where it is" and "That is all right."

The city physician and police officials endeavored to learn something of the woman's history, but their questions were given disconnected replies, making it impossible to obtain the information desired.

She wrote "The police are coming in soon. You know the tall policeman? I have been waiting on the porch for my supper. A man cooked supper. His wife is there."

When asked if she was hungry the old lady showed her understanding by quickly writing "Yes."

It was evident that the woman was suffering from some affliction of her reasoning power, and she was shown every favor in the power of the police department. A tempting supper was placed before the guest and a comfortable cot furnished for her night's rest.

GREATEST SHEEP SHOW IN WORLD

International Sheepmen Will Have Big Exhibits at the Ogden Show.

Encouraging Letters Being Received Daily by Chairman Herrington.

That the Ogden Sheep Show will be the greatest exhibition of the kind in the world's history of sheep raising is the unqualified contention of Chairman F. W. Herrington. The chairman of the Fair association enthusiastically claims that no previous sheep show held in Utah or any other state in the Union will approach the Ogden exhibition, Sept. 23 to 29.

The exhibition building has just been completed and will contain 260 pens. This is about a fourth larger than was at first thought to be necessary, the change in the plans being made when it was found that a building any smaller than one of 260 pens would be entirely inadequate. Entries for the big show are coming in daily from all parts of the United States and Canada.

A letter was received yesterday from John Rawlings of Forest, Ont., stating that he will be present at the Ogden show with 500 yearling Cotswold lambs, 35 Dartmoor lambs and 18 head of Rambouillet lambs. Mr. Rawlings is one of the most prominent sheep raisers in the Dominion of Canada.

W. F. Renk of Sun Prairie, Wis., has ordered that 30 ewes be reserved for his display, which will include Hampshire and Shropshire. In addition to his exhibit Mr. Renk will bring 40 head of Shropshire yearlings to this city and place them on sale.

These are only a few of the many entries that have been accepted by the board of directors. Chairman Herrington, in telling of the extraordinarily large number of entries that are being received, stated last night that if they continued to pour in at the local office it would be necessary to enlarge the exhibition building to double its present size.

"Just how to handle all of the displays is what is giving us some trouble right now," said the chairman. "I'm afraid we will have to build another addition to our building in order to admit all the sheep men who desire to take part in the fair. There is an unusual interest being taken in the show all over the country, and every mail brings us more entries. It will be the greatest exhibition of sheep that has ever been held in any town, state or country in the world. I don't think anything in sheep history will compare with it. It is going to set a new pace for sheep show promoters."

BOLD BAD BANDITS BUSY

Quartette of Thugs Assault and Fire Upon Many Citizens.

Wall Avenue and Twenty-First Scene of Daring Work of Robbers.

A band of four desperadoes terrorized the residents in the neighborhood of Wall avenue and Twenty-first street late last night. The gang assaulted two men who were returning to their homes, and immediately afterward opened fire upon George Faulkner and John Scott Blair, frightening the two named men almost out of their wits, and coming within an ace of doing murder.

The quartette was first noticed by Blair and Faulkner on the corner of Twenty-first street and Wall avenue. They were standing on the corner holding a conversation when they noticed the four men approach two other men who were walking down the Oregon Short Line track at the intersection. One of the four approached the two men and asked them where they were going, and, before a reply could be given, staggered his man with a savage blow in the face. The couple saw that they were up against a hard proposition and took to their heels with sufficient speed to make their getaway.

Faulkner and Blair, who had observed the whole proceeding, immediately entertained a suspicion that they would be the next to receive the attention of the hold-ups. They were not wrong, for the four men started to cross the street in their direction. Faulkner stopped to the street and was about to pick up a heavy stone to be used in defense, when the thugs opened fire.

When the first shot was fired the distance intervening was less than twenty-five feet, and the two targets considered themselves fortunate that their lives were spared. They immediately set out on a sprint north on Wall avenue for home with the leaden missiles of death scattering the dust close to their feet. After a run of a block and a half the hold-up men gave up the chase and Faulkner immediately notified the police.

The patrol wagon with three officers were immediately dispatched to the scene, and searched the brush near the spot where the highwaymen were last seen, but no trace was found. After an extended hunt, the wagon with the officers returned to the station only to find another call for them from the same source.

Back to Faulkner's residence the officers went, and made a more thorough search for the men, who since their capture had been taken to a residence of that section for some money, and had been seen in the neighborhood of the gas house. The entire country including several box cars on a siding, were gone over this time, but as before, no trace could be found. The night was dark and electric lights few and far between, making the search well nigh futile.

Members of the police department assert that for the last two days they have noticed that the city is "filling up" with an unusually large number of desperadoes, and believe the electric lights few and far between, making the search well nigh futile.

WILL CONCRETE COUNTIES CANAL

Gillis Brothers Receive Contract, Which Amounts to $150,000

Contemplated Improvements by Weber & Davis Counties Canal Co. Estimated at $600,000

The Weber and Davis Counties Canal company has awarded the contract for the concreting of the nine-mile canal leading from the Weber river to the bench lands south of Ogden and next Tuesday 100 men will be at work grading and concreting according to contract.

Tomorrow the canal will be emptied. The concrete and grading work would begin Monday were it not a holiday. There will be no delay in the cement laying, the contract providing for the completion of the work November 15, a time prior to heavy freezing weather.

A part of two miles of concrete work was done on the canal last fall and the balance of that, which includes a good deal of rock work, will be finished this year under another contract. The present contractors, Gillis Brothers company of Salt Lake, have agreed to do seven miles of the work and is for this piece of concrete building that present preparations have been made.

Engineer Boston states that the cost of the concrete to be placed by the Gillis company will amount to about $150,000 and that the completion of all the improvements will cost the company about $600,000. The valuation of the stock of the company is $1,000,000. The water capacity of the canal by the improvement will be doubled at the point where it will be turned upon the farm lands. Besides this, a water supply for power purposes will be furnished that will generate 5,000 horse power and will bring a net annual revenue of $100,000.

The power plant will be erected at a point on Weber river about a mile south of Riverdale. Most of this power has already been sold to the Salt Lake and Ogden Railway company and the balance will be placed on the market.

Material for the work of concreting the canal is now on the ground, there being seven cars of gravel, twelve cars of cement and other material. When the forces get fairly at work on the job, three cars of cement will be used each day. The grading will be done largely by means of steam shovels, it being anticipated that the graders keep ahead of the concrete men from the beginning of the operation to the end.

The headgate of the canal will be enlarged this fall and early next spring the reservoir will be greatly enlarged. When completed the ditch will carry 725 cubic feet of water per second, and will irrigate 24,000 acres of land. The canal will carry an average of 300-second feet of water. It will be the only concrete canal of the intermountain country.

HENRIETTA CROSMAN in the Celebrated Drama, "ANTI-MATRIMONY." OGDEN THEATRE, SEPT. 8th. Box Office opens Tuesday, 10 a. m.

HENRIETTA CROSMAN

In the Brilliant Comedy success "Anti-Matrimony."

Miss Henrietta Crosman is enthusiastic about the gowns she wears in her new play, "Anti-Matrimony," with which she has scored the biggest hit of her career. The play is in four acts and in each one Miss Crosman is seen in a new "creation." In the third act she has two changes, and the ladies in the audience never fail to wonder at the quickness with which she changes absolutely unlike the former. The secret is that Miss Crosman carries a portable dressing room, which stands on the stage by the first entrance. Here her two maids have everything in readiness for the change, and the consequence is that the operation is almost instantaneous.

Miss Crosman comes to the Ogden theatre Thursday, Sept. 8.

Mr. Maurice Campbell, manager of Miss Henrietta Crosman, has abandoned all plans for any further productions for his star for the next two seasons on account of the tremendous success of her present vehicle, "Anti-Matrimony." The Percy MacKaye comedy that has set all the critics wild with enthusiasm. Miss Crosman has, in the part of Mildred, the mistress's wife, a role that gives her every opportunity for displaying the remarkable versatility that has placed her at the head of her profession.

Ogden theatre, Sept. 8, Thursday next.

A writer on theatrical topics, who is supposed to be well posted on everything connected with the profession, has just made a curious blunder in a New York afternoon newspaper. In discussing the scarcity of great actresses who have been naturally blonde, he gives a list of brunettes such as Maxine Elliott, Julia Marlowe, Henrietta Crosman and others. In this he has made a mistake, for Miss Crosman is a natural blonde, with hair so light that it resembles fine spun gold. Comment on the beauty of Miss Crosman's hair has been universal. Ogden theatre, Sept. 8, Thursday next.
